MEET & GREET

Your City of Lake Ozark Employees

Whether it's 95 degrees in the middle of summer, or 10 degrees and snowing in the depths of winter, the City of Lake Ozark Transportation Department is on the job making sure the city's 90 miles of lake streets are being maintained.

Darryn Robertson, a resident of Iberia, is among the crew working on street signs, pushing snow, patching potholes, using backpack blowers and generally helping keep the streets safe and operational.

Darryn is an Iberia High School graduate and in his second year with the City of Lake Ozark. After high school, he was a bank teller at First State Bank in Iberia and then worked for Fancher-Rekus Funeral Home there. He also attended two years of post-graduate school at Columbia College.

He also served as a fireman for the Iberia Fire Protection for 13 years.

Raised on a farm, Darryn continues to help on his parents' farm near Iberia and in his spare time enjoys hunting and fishing.

He and his wife have two children, one boy and one girl.
